

Clauses to consider if the family can be difficult:

No contest:

In the event any beneficiary attempts to alter the division of my estate as allocated herein by initiating or joining in any will contest action, motion for transfer of exemption, or by the filing of exceptions and objections to any settlement, all bequests to that person shall be void.

Contingent bequests:

All bequests in my Will are hereby made contingent upon cooperation of that beneficiary with my Executor named herein, including the giving of a waiver of formal settlement within 20 days of the request of my Executor, and further, each bequest is contingent upon the beneficiary not filing any Will contest, Will construction action or action to settle my estate, nor any exceptions or objections to the activities of my Executor, it being my intent that no beneficiary may complicate or impede the efforts of my chosen Executor in the settlement of my estate. I vest my executor with the discretion to disqualify beneficiaries in order to expedite the resolution of my estate.
